DEDICATION

MISS BRUCE

MISS ZAHALAN

This year, the editors have decided to dedicate the Record to two teachers, Miss Bruce and Miss Zahalan. Both have given long and devoted service to this school and will be sorely missed when they retire at the close of this year. Miss Bruce has been our Lady Vice-Principal and a teacher in the Commercial Department; Miss Zahalan has taught History, English, French, and Latin. These two ladies have been an asset to the school and admired by all. To Miss Bruce and Miss Zahalan therefore, we dedicate the 1966-67 Record.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Much has already been said and written about our two great events of this year -- Canada's Centennial and Expo '67; but these two events coming in your life-time as they have, and happening the year of your graduation makes them all the more important.

Many of you will be able to look back with pride upon your contribution to the celebration of our centennial year, and speak proudly of your participation in this great festival.

Several events have already taken place during the school year to mark this event, and plans are well underway for the final program in the field of music of which we are so justly proud.

Although EXPO has not officially opened at the time of writing, we all have the feeling that this will be one of the greatest spectacles we shall ever have the privilege of witnessing. It is a fine example of just what can be done by the men of our generation who, faced with countless obstacles, were able to surmount them all, and have come up with such a wonderful portrayal of man's ingenuity.

May I urge each and every one of you to look to those leaders of our country who have moulded a strong nation over the years, and to those men of enterprise of today who have met the challenge to give us EXPO '67.

WILLIAM S. TRENHOLM
Principal.

EDITORIAL

In this our graduation year, it is natural for us to stop and look back upon the numerous events we have experienced. While some have been only comical interludes, others have given us everlasting values and a new outlook on life. Grade XI is usually the most memorable year in the life of a high school student; but 1967 has presented the added thrill of Centennial Celebrations and the greatest world exposition here on our very doorstep -- Expo '67.

What can we say of Canada's Hundredth Birthday? How can mere words express our emotion? Suffice it to say that we have caught the inspiration of a new land maturing -- and have felt proud to be part of that land. We cannot restore an old Canadian town or build a new wing to a university, but we can each be a part of the growing Canadian national character which indeed must be a result of this, one of the greatest years in Canadian history. Rosemount High has entered into the true spirit of Centennial Year, having taken part in numerous projects, such as a bilingual debate and student exchanges, which have increased our understanding of fellow Canadians.

As this yearbook is going to press, Expo '67 has opened its gates. From the myriad of wonders on the magic islands to the simple contacts with the millions of visitors, we have opportunity beyond comparison to broaden our knowledge of other countries and their people. May we take this thought with us as we go our separate ways in this our Centennial Year.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead

He never to himself hath said:

"This is my own, my native land."

4E-1

ANDREW AVDIMIRETZ: "Why take life seriously? You'll never get out of it alive!" Andy, a Ukrainian-Canadian, came to us from Dunton High. This year, he was elected treasurer of the Students' Council. He can often be found at dances and sports events mapping candid shots for the Record. Fridays he conducts meetings of the Ukrainian Club of which he is president. Next year he hopes to enter college in the engineering field. He thanks Rosemount high for the two fine years he has spent here.

SERGE BARLADIAN: Remember a bird in the hand . . . is bad table manners. Serge, born in Belgium of Russian descent immigrated to Canada in 1951. After completing his elementary education at Nesbitt he entered the portals of Rosemount. While here, Serge has won two scholarships, been a member of the Prefect Board and has participated in soccer and tennis. His ambitions include escaping from Quebec and furthering his education in the engineering or architectural fields.

VOLKER BECKENRACH: "If the birds can do it, and the bees can do it, Why can't I -- Learn to fly." Volker was born in Heidelberg, Germany, on May 25, 1949. He immigrated to Canada in 1957, and after spending six years in Nesbitt School, entered R.H.S. While here, he played soccer (from '64-'67) and being something of a tennis ace (?), participated in the club from '63-'67. He can usually be found wandering along the halls cracking jokes with his friends. After graduation, he hopes to take a course in science at McGill or Sir George Williams University.

GEORGE BONDARCIUC: "Life is what you make it, not what it makes you." Born in Lyons, France, of Ukrainian descent, George entered the colourful halls of "Pinkhill" four years ago, having previously attended Mountrose School. Upon graduating, he has an alternative: either take up a course in architecture or become a successful science-fiction writer. Ghosts, flying saucers, The Boston Bruins, soulful records, and pretty girls are among the many things he enjoys in life. During his memorable stay here, he has participated in the Students' Council, Gymnastics, Public Speak, Debating, Drama, and the "Voice".

PETER CHEPYHA: Hate your family and animals, never tell the truth, and steal, to get ahead. -- W.C. Fields. Peter, our happy anarchist, is a native of London, England. This year's lighting crew chief, he has also made his presence felt in the Students' Council, the Voice, and as a Class President. Peter is in the process of writing "A Book For Children" which he hopes will be ready for his second childhood (very soon.) He does not live by his quotation, and therefore, has found himself in one of Canada's more honest and trustworthy occupations -- The Naval Reserve. His ambition is to serve the world in any dark way he feels is necessary to keep humanity in its present state of upheaval.

RAYMOND CHERRIER: Our future is going to depend not so much on what happens in outer space, as what happens in inner space -- the space between our ears. This 16 year old French-Canadian came to Rosemount via Peace Centennial, Bedford, and St. Patrick's. He participated in the swimming team '64-'67, wrestling team '64-'67, puppet entertainment group, record club, mixed choir, United Nations Club, and Prefect Board. In other words, he was kept comparatively well occupied by sports and extra-curricular activities. Despite this busy fact, he succeeded in annually collecting scholarships. If nothing else, Raymond has learned to cherish dearly true friendships. He wishes to enter the field of architecture at McGill.

BRIAN CHRISTIE: "All pleasures ought to be short and for that matter gravities too." -- Voltaire. A native of Winnipeg, Brian is what one might call a World Traveller, owing to the fact that his father is in the Air Force. He hopes that Rosemount, his eighth school, will be his last. He also aspires to be accepted into the university of his choice. His favourite saying is: "Simplicity at its Easiest." He is not certain about his future, but is leaning a little towards the fields of Law or Psychology.

WENDALINE CLARKE "WENDY": "To have ideas is to gather flowers; to think is to weave them into garlands." Wendy, a native Montrealer, became a Rosemountian via Mountrose School. A lover of music, nature, and art, she is imprisoned by the fascinations of writing. Her weakness is not being able to express herself when most needed. Her undecided future will most likely find her "sweeping" the halls of Sir George Williams University. Wendy's activities include: four faithful years of mixed choir, a member of the Usherettes '65-'66, '66-'67, and the Decorating Committee. Her present goal, is to say a successful "good-bye" to Rosemount High

RICHARD DAWES: "Venus though you have no arms I think that you are sweet; Don't worry 'bout your handicap Come, crush me in your feet." Before coming to R.H.S., Montreal-born Rick attended Peace Centennial. Frequently after school he can be heard inquiring, "What do we have for history homework?" His pet aversion is waiting for a bus at 7:30 on a rainy morning. Rick's ambition is to be a draftsman, but he fears he may succeed only in sharpening pencils. During his stay at R.H.S., the tennis club has been blessed with his talent.

SANDRA de BENEDETTI: "A man's a man for a' that." -- Robbie Burns. "Sandy" was born sixteen years ago in Canada's thriving metropolis, Montreal. She began her studies at Peace Centennial and then went to Drummond, where she finished her elementary training. From there she entered Rosemount High following two other family members (and little does the staff know that another de Benedetti will struggle in the front door of old R.H.S. as she is dashing out the back!) Sandra would like to be a speech therapist. She likes reading, drawing, traveling, and bespectacled males; she cannot abide pickles and narrow-mindedness.

CAROL LANGEVIN: "When wealth is lost, nothing is lost; When health is lost, something is lost; When character is lost, all is lost." Carol is easily recognized, as one rarely finds her in a serious mood. Generally smiling, she is often suspected of being up to something, and usually is. She admires sincerity and friendliness. Her pet peeves are people who don't understand her intellectual puns, rainy days, and hypocrites. She puts at the top of her list of enjoyable pastimes; laughing, trying to make people happy, writing, and discussing.

WILLIAM GRUNDIE: Work fascinates me, I can sit and watch it for hours. Billy Grundie entered Rosemount High from Mountrose School four years ago. Since that time, he has been moderately active in the school's sports and clubs, participating in the Tennis Club ('63-'67), where he was a doubles finalist once ('63-'64), and a winner twice ('64-'66), and in sports on our soccer team ('63-'64), ('65-'67). He also spent numerous hours after school making up overdue English and French assignments.

HELEN OLENDER: "There is no one so stupid as an educated man, when he is taken off the subject he's educated on." -- Will Rogers. After her tormented stay at Devonshire and Nesbitt Schools, Helen was glad to enter R.H.S. where she has spent "the best years of her life". She enjoys reading (especially a good "mystery"), and swimming, (when she's not drowning). Her pet aversions are disagreeable people. Helen has participated in the different choirs, and the Latin Club. She plans to enter Grade 12 and eventually to become an English teacher.

CHARLES MAKAD: A woman, like a sweet wine should be sipped, tasted, enjoyed. -- Makad. After serving a seven year stretch in Peace Centennial, he was sentenced to four years in Rosemount. During that period he participated in Public Speaking and Debating, soccer, baseball, drama and was Student Council Representative ('65-'66). His favourite pastime is fooling people into believing he is intelligent. After graduating, he hopes to join the Peace Corps, and work for a B. S. W.

PHILIP PERKINS: "Life is what you make it -- and it all begins in school." Philip was born in Montreal and after the joys of care-free childhood advanced to spend seven long years at Drummond School which prepared him for entrance to Rosemount High School. Educational requirements have not encroached unduly upon his private life, nor does he let them interfere with his sporting instincts. Soccer, basketball, swimming, anything on wheels and, of course, the fine art of guitar playing have had their due measure of his time. Philip hopes to continue in this manner through Grade Twelve and then onwards to a career which is still in question.

BRENDA ROSE: "This, above all, to thine own self be true," Shakespeare. After four years of experimentation, Brenda has gleaned from Rosemount the fact that she cannot stay awake all day on five hours' sleep. She has been a member of the Junior and Senior Bands and the Mixed Choir, and is constantly bemoaning her lack of mathematical proficiency. Not yet sure of her place in life, she plans to take a course in journalism, and try her hand at writing. With dreams of doing something useful with her life, she hopes to spend at least a few years wandering around North America.

NIGEL TENNESON: "Man is born free, and everywhere he is in chains." This lad was born on the other side of the Pond, near the City of London. In 1963, he moved to Canada and, after passing through several schools, including Nesbitt, he arrived at Rosemount High. During his stay, his most worthwhile activity, he feels, has been as the school's representative on Eaton's Junior Council. He has also been active at some time or another in the Band, Mixed Choir, Students' Council, swimming and football teams, Public Speaking and Debating Club, Chess Club, as well as being the Editor of this year's Record. His plans for the future include university but otherwise he is uncertain.

STARR POTTER: In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths. Prov. 3:6. Starr, a native Montrealer attended Nesbitt and Mountrose Schools before coming to Rosemount High. During her four years here, she has participated in I.S.C.F., Mixed Choir, and the Record Club. After graduation, Starr plans to go to Grade Twelve, and then on to nursing school at the Montreal General Hospital.

JULIE SCHICK: "Selfishness is a gift of nature. Unselfishness is an accomplishment." Sharp as Schick (Ouch!), Julie was born of Austrian parentage, and due to this, she can speak a third language. Before R.H.S., she attended Ogilvie School. Her favourite pastime is talking. Boys, naturally, are on top of her list of hobbies. Having travelled in seven countries, she really loves to meet new people and correspond with them. Her anxious moments occur when people misspell her last name; call her Julia instead of Julie, and inquire whether her hair is naturally red (P.S. it really is). She has been a Red Cross, and Athletic Rep; class President of '65 - '66. Her future, she hopes will be in commerce.

4E-2

ROMAN BEREZA: "The whole world stands aside. To let them pass. Who know where they are going." A native Montrealer, Roman entered the portals of Rosemount on that fateful September day of 1963, after struggling through seven years at Drummond. During his stay he has participated in the Ukrainian, camera, and tennis clubs, "The voice," and member of the Prefect Board '65 - '67. His pet aversion is unfriendly people and anyone who doesn't support the Alouettes or Canadiens. Determined to devote himself to the "Saving" of peoples' lives, and being the optimist he is, he plans to take Pre-Med. at McGill.

JANET BRAY: "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." Eccl. III. After seven years at Drummond, and four years at Rosemount, Janet has enough material on school life to write a best-selling novel (in Latin?) She has been co-editor of "The Voice," class representative for "The Record", and a member of the I.S.C.F. Janet has been on oboist in the Senior Band, and a faithful (?) member of the Prefect Board. Her pet peeve is people who remind her of a certain relative. Next year, Janet plans to enter the Faculty of Science at McGill.

JERRY DAVIDSON: "Money isn't everything. But is way ahead of whatever is second best." Jerry is a native Montrealer. After completing his sentence at Ogilvie School, Jerry proceeded to Rosemount High. During his stay here, Jerry did little in the way of work, but could always be found in the recreation area during lunch, playing ping-pong. Jerry's pet peeves are getting up in the morning (especially on Mondays), conceited people, and homework. Upon graduating, Jerry hopes to complete Grade 12 at Montreal High. His goal in life is to become a chartered accountant.

MARLENE FENNES: "Life is what happens while you're waiting for something else." Marlene, born in Montreal at the Royal Victoria Hospital, came to Rosemount High via Peace Centennial and Drummond Schools. Her pet peeves are conceited people and writing compositions. Her favourite pastimes include babysitting, reading, and talking. Marlene hopes to enter the school of nursing at the Montreal General Hospital, to travel around the world, and finally, to settle down in Montreal and raise her own nursery.

PAUL EISNER: "Well, God gave them wisdom that have it; and those that are fools, let them use their talents." Shakespeare. Via Ogilvie School, Paul dropped into Rosemount. During his four (maybe five) year stay, he scholarship-ped his way through the first three years, and participated in the Junior and Senior Band as well as the football teams. Taking part in the French play '66 - '68, he portrayed all his hidden talents which are very few. However, he showed everybody what he couldn't do when he was President of the Students' Council in '66 - '67.

GREGORY HAMMOND: "A member of the night people -- and the day dreamers." Greg is owned by an Air Force family, currently residing in St. Hubert. He has occasionally lived "out West," (where he was born in '49), in England, Ontario, and almost five years in "La Belle Province." Catching his morning bus Dagwood style, keeps him in top physical condition for sports. He participated in R.H.S. hockey. Pastimes are cooking and playing the guitar. Pet peeve, not being able to decide on his ambition. Probable destiny, baking musical fortune cookies in a Chinese restaurant.

SHARON HAROLD: "You're right from your side; I'm right from mine." -- B. Dylan. After spending two years (involuntary) at Rosemount, Sharon gladly breaks the bonds of High School, to emerge into the world of the living. She is probably best known for her frankness, and her hideous laugh. She spends her weekends playing her beloved Bob Dylan L. P.'s or gallivanting about Montreal. She has a terrible affinity for getting involved in controversial discussions and for buying on an impulse. With far-fetched dreams of being a traveling writer (vagrant?) she plans to study English at college in her own sweet time.

GARY JOHNSON: "Thinking is what happens when you finally close your mouth and your head starts talking some sense to itself." Gary, a native Montrealer, breezed through Mountrose School, before entering Rosemount. He can always be heard talking (when does he stop?) about anything, mainly sports. His pet aversions are people who dislike "Les Canadiens" or the Alouettes. Being active in soccer, swimming, and tennis, Gary is usually found around the gym. He was a Public Speaking Winner in '63. Gary plans to further his education at McGill in the Faculty of Engineering.

WOLFGANG KOERNER: "Vom vater hab'ich die Statur Des Lebens ernstes fuhren; Vom M Mutterchen die frohnatur Und lust zu fabulieren." -- Goethe. Born in Oberhessen, West Germany, Wolfgang came to Canada in 1956 and attended Ogilvie School, before entering Rosemount. During his stay here, he has participated in the tennis club, volleyball and swimming teams, Red Cross, and membership on the prefect board. His pet aversion is people who keep insisting that he lives in the "sticks" and ask when he will once more join civilization. He has no definite plans for the future, but hopes to enter the teaching profession.

ALICE LACH: "Deep into that darkness peering, long I stood there wondering, fearing, doubting, dreaming, dreams no mortals ever dared to dream before . . ." -- Edgar Allen Poe. Alice was born into a Ukrainian family, on a summer day in 1950. Her education began at Drummond School, and continued at Nesbitt for two years. Finally with a scholarship she entered Rosemount High. Her stay was accented with honour pins, proficiency badges, and scholarships. She was a member of the Mixed Choir, the Ukrainian Club, and "The Voice". Her ambition is to become a teacher.

MARY LEE: "We know what we are, but we do not know what we may be." Born in China, Mary immigrated to Canada. Being a particular girl, she sampled Peace Centennial, Strathearn and Aberdeen Schools before R.H.S. She soon conquered us with her smile and hypnotized us into enduring the sound of her constant laughter. During her stay, she has participated in volleyball, basketball, badminton, Variety Show, Prefect Board, and was this year's representative on Eaton's Junior Council. Although her future is undecided, Mary is determined to hitch-hike to the far corners of the world.

MONIQUE LAROSE: "Homework takes up my attention -- And someone else we will not mention." Although born in Montreal, Monique spent most of her younger years in New Brunswick and arrived at Rosemount High via schools in N.B. and Devonshire and Nesbitt Schools. This blue-eyed, dark-blond, experienced a most interesting tenth grade, by being the only girl in her Trig class. Monique enjoys unorganized sports, reading, walking, and being in the company of a certain male. She was a member of the Prefect Board '65-'67, and received scholarships for the past three years.

RONALD LOUWE: "Most handsome guys are conceited, I'm not." A native of Amsterdam, Holland, Ron came to Rosemount by way of Drummond School. His ambition is to go to University, and study engineering. Ron has participated in tennis, and swimming, and can usually be found in the gym after school asking for the key. His pet aversion is girls who think they are "It". Ron is a lover of fine clothes, and of Rhythm and Blues music. His favourite pastimes include sports, and wild parties on weekends.

PAMELA LEE: "When you have claustrophobia, you learn to walk on top of the weeds!" -- Schulz. Pam spent four years at R.H.S. via Nesbitt. She believes in a well-rounded education, and has participated in extra-curricular activities, including basketball, volleyball, Students' Council, usherettes, athletic representative and I. S. C. F. Her friends have learned to recognise a thoughtful look on her face and to watch out, she is probably thinking of a corny pun or an argument. She would like to enter McGill and choose a career in Meteorology, but calculating her childrens' temperatures will probably be her destiny.

RUTH NAYLOR: "He is no fool who gives what he cannot keep to gain what he cannot lose." This blundering, blushing blonde emigrated from "the" public school, namely Drummond, in 1963. Her favourite expression is "Nuts!", and her usual pastimes include sewing, playing the piano, and (a few may have noticed) singing. Ruth hopes to continue her education at a University of her choice, and thinks she will become a teacher or social worker. She has been active in choir and I. S. C. F. during the last two years of high school.

RICHARD ORDOWICH: "There is no crime in not doing homework, but in getting caught!" Richard, a native of Montreal, came to R. H. S., via Nesbitt and Mountrose Schools. After graduating, he plans to go to McGill to study electronics, to become an engineer. His pet hate is teachers who ask him questions. Racing minibikes and electrocuting himself are his favourite pastimes. After finishing McGill, he plans to work as a Space Research Scientist. During his stay, he participated in the Senior Band for two years.

LINDA PARAGIS: "Early to rise, Early to bed; Make a girl healthy; But socially dead." A native Montrealer, of Lithuanian descent, Linda emigrated to R. H. S. via Samantyne and Mountrose Schools. Linda has been active in volleyball, basketball, badminton, track and field, cheerleading, president of the Leaders' Corps. '66-'67, a member of the Prefect Board, and sports writer for "The Voice". She also represented her school as Miss U. A. C. Somehow, Lin gets her homework done. She plans to enter Macdonald and then to teach.

DAKIA PROKOPIW: "I slept and dreamt, that life was beauty, But when I woke, found life was duty." Daria, of Ukrainian descent, was born in Montreal, and came to R. H. S. via Mountrose School. Her extra activities have been, Mixed Choir, basketball teams of '63-'66, and Decorating Committee. Her favourite pastime, besides playing the piano, is listening to "good music" and watching National Hockey games on T. V. Daria has two main ambitions: to go to a Finishing School in Lausanne, Switzerland, to study French; and then to become a Registered Nurse.

RONNIE RODECK: "Keep off the grass." Ron, a native Montrealer, came to Rosemount High after graduating from Drummond School. His favourite pastimes are playing hockey, basketball, and football. After finishing High school, Ron plans to go on to University. During his stay at R. H. S. he has participated in tennis, badminton, soccer, Junior soccer, and Junior football.

RUTH ROSS: "I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." -- St. John 10:11. This long-haired farm-eress, was born in Ontario, and can often be heard boasting about her "Homeland". Her main interests are animals and music; she has developed, to the full, her talent for ceaseless laughter. She also has the ability to gab with her friends on the phone for hours. Ruth's weakness is Hereford calves with big brown eyes and the comic-strip "Peanuts". Her ambitions are to grow a few more inches, further her education, and become a teacher.

VICTOR SAWA: "Most ignorant is vincible ignorance. We don't know because we don't want to know." Vic, whose pet peeves are ignorant people and music haters, was born in Victoria Hospital, on Victoria Day (they couldn't call him Victoria). One often hears him discussing music. He has been active in the band, choir, record club, tennis, and going to a second school which he has attended for the past three years; the Conservatoire de Music. Vic's ambition is to become a concert performer, or a conductor. He plans to continue at the Conservatoire and to take music at McGill.

PHILIP SZALICH: "It's the mark of an inexperienced man not to believe in luck." -- Joseph Conrad. Being chased from Nesbitt School, Philip decided to try his luck at R. H. S., and has been fairly successful. Philip's activities included, Mixed Choir, Head Prefect '66-'67, Junior football '65-'66, and intramural sports. When not in school or cramming for exams, Philip enjoys blowing occasional notes on his trumpet, and reading Stephen Leacock. His pet peeve is people that "bug" him, while he is trying to do yesterday's homework during lunch hour. He has no definite plans for the future.

LOUISE UNO

"A smile is a curve that can straighten out a lot of things." This Japanese Miss was born in Montreal, not in the exotic land of cherry blossoms. She left Nesbitt with great expectations and so far has not been disappointed. She has won four scholarships, honour pins, and proficiency badges. Her favourite pastimes are reading, and listening to Dave Boxer. She may exclaim, "You're kidding!" a cry which becomes a shriek when forgotten homework is the subject. She was co-editor of "The Record", participated in "The Voice" and in an international Christmas pageant.

She is a new pupil, but catches on fast. She is the Record representative for 4R-1. She feels that there is only one problem at Rosemount and this is commonly known as work. ## SENIOR PRIZE WINNING SPEECH

THE BIBLE AND MODERN SCIENCE

We are living in a day when science is in the forefront of our thinking. Our daily lives are shielded by modern comforts and enriched by material advances which we owe largely to the industry and vision of our scientists. Today scientists are thought to be cold, hard, and atheistic but little credence is given to the fact that many of the greatest scientists in history, and many in our day, have affirmed that an increasing knowledge of scientific truth has strengthened rather than weakened their faith in God. In fact, not so long ago a magazine reporter for a national publication noted that most scientists believe in God. One said, "For me, I prefer the belief in a creator, divine, supernatural. I cannot accept chaos." Another, "We have found laws to prove we can't make mass and energy. Yet it must come from somewhere. There must be a Higher Power who can make it." It was only last November at the First World Congress on Evangelism in Berlin that Dr. Hans Rohrbach, the President of Mainz University in Germany stated, and I quote, "radical theologians are basing current speculations on outmoded scientific thought." Thus, the purpose of this essay is to clearly lay before you my position in regards to the supposed battle between the Bible and Modern Science.

I would now like to present some of many interesting points which have together confirmed my belief that the bible and Modern Science can exist together in this world without conflict. Did you know that there is a vast expanse in the northern heavens where even our most powerful telescopes cannot detect a single star? Thousands of years ago, the author of Job, an early Old Testament book wrote down this remarkable fact and only in the past one hundred years has science found this out. Did you know that thousands of years ago, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and other Old Testament writers declared that the earth was round, and poised in space, that the moon didn't shine, and that the stars could not be numbered? And this to the jeers and ridicule of scientists living in their day and even of Sixteenth Century scientists. WHO taught Job the science of astronomy?

This leads me on to another subject which undeservedly has alarmed many who have put their faith in the Scriptures -- The Theory of Evolution. The unfortunate part of this whole matter is that many professors, lacking in personal honesty or in intestinal fortitude, teach the theory as an established fact. It is nothing of the sort! Far from forming a phalanx of agreement, the truth is that scientists widely differ at every point in the theory. Indeed, even fifty years ago the evolutionists were quite mixed up. In answer to the question, "How did man come?", two eminent scientists, Professor J. A. Thompson and Patrick Geddes, who were championing the cause of evolution most explicitly stated, "We do not know whence he emerged, nor do we know how man arose . . . for it must be admitted that the factors of the evolution of man partake largely of the nature of maybe's which have no permanent position in science." What a pitiable confession!

No less an authority than the late scientific genius, Lord Kelvin, who at eleven years of age attended Glasgow University, said the following, "Was there anything so absurd as to believe that a number of atoms, by falling together of their own accord, could make a sprig of moss, a microbe, a living animal?"

It is amazing that evolutionists think a Christian is gullible to believe in God but do not think themselves gullible for believing in evolution which says, "Out of the primordial ooze and over millions of centuries there came the union of elements that made a complex molecule which could reproduce itself and be called alive." The odds against this happening by chance, if it had to happen all at once, have been estimated as something of the order of 10 to the 72nd power. I, as a human being with the powers of rationalization that I have been given, cannot possibly believe in evolution and all its atheistic tendencies when these are placed against the formidable, and for me overwhelming evidence in favour of the infallibility of the Bible and the existence of God.

My powers of reasoning cannot persuade me to believe that this universe and all the wonderful creation in it just happened to come along. Thus in conclusion, I heartily agree with Dr. Henry M. Morris, who in his book The Bible and Modern Science, wrote, "The Christian Faith is not founded on wishful thinking or blind acceptance of tradition, but rather on a tremendous body of real objective evidence."

"IS CONQUEST OF SPACE NECESSARY "

WINNING SPEECH--JUNIOR DIVISION
IS THE CONQUEST OF SPACE NECESSARY?

As space travel is in its early development it is hard for many people to decide whether it is necessary or just a waste of time and money. Many people would say that it is not necessary but their opinion is based on the fact that they believe the moon and other planets would be of no use to us even if man ever reached them, and there are some people who do not even believe that man will ever land on the moon or other planets. Although these people may have good reasons for their belief, I believe that space travel is necessary and that man should achieve it.

My belief is based on the fact that scientists think it is important, for they would not send men in space for no reason at all. These scientists have good reason for risking the lives of men who leave the safety of earth to live in the hostile environment of space.

One good reason why space travel is important is the valuable scientific information concerning the theory of other forms of life existing in the universe, which will be obtained during the exploration of near-by planets. Another good reason is the rapidly increasing population.

Although considering migration to other planets at this time may sound fantastic, still it is too early to consider the problem of feeding such a growing population. When this problem actually presents itself, and if no steps have been taken to deal with it, then it will be too late to consider any solutions.

A major problem which could be solved by space travel is the decreasing supply of natural resources. Since the time of primitive man, the natural resources of the earth are being used up in tremendous amounts. Man is now digging deeper and deeper for the minerals he needs and soon a limit will be reached.

If man was able to roam in space, the problem of natural resources could be easily solved. He could obtain his supply of minerals, and an almost infinite supply of uranium to run his atomic reactors, from the deposits of other planets. Special reflectors could be set up on some planets, namely Jupiter and its moons, to reflect some of the rays of the sun to the earth, where they are received by special mirrors and are changed into heat energy which could be put to use. Space travel will not only solve the problem of natural resources but will also lead man to develop new fuels and new engines to use them.

To many, space travel will not seem to be the solution to these problems and actually now it is hard to imagine in what ways space travel will help to solve them. The answer lies only in the future, but it is obvious that space travel will play an important part in the survival of mankind.

In addition to helping his survival, space travel will satisfy man's ambitions, for man has always been restless and wandering across the face of the earth, and now out there lies the universe waiting for man to explore its endless highways. And someday man will explore the universe and travel to the stars. It does not matter whether the Americans or the Russians accomplish it first so long as it is done.

As for the people who do not believe that the conquest of space will ever be accomplished, remember that where there is a will there is a way and man is always willing to explore the unknown and always wants to be the master and the conqueror.

BEWARE OF LEVEL CROSSINGS

Darkness now engulfed the small town as dull grey clouds obliterated the light of the moon and the shimmering stars. Two steady beams of yellow light shone through the misty night as a brilliant orange school bus pulled to a stop beside the railway crossing. The sounds of laughing and gay singing broke the eerie stillness that seemed to hang, like the fog, over the valley. Slowly the vehicle started up the embankment until the jolting of the bus told the passengers that they were on the railway tracks.

Suddenly, the rumbling of an approaching train was heard and a blazing light appeared through the swirling mist. The long whining of the engine's whistle sounded repeatedly, echoing throughout the valley. The engineer saw a flash of colour before him and pushed his foot to the emergency brake. The screeching of iron against the steel tracks drowned out the terrified screams of the teenagers, and flashing sparks from the train's wheels momentarily illuminated the sky. A thunderous crash followed and the sound of steel being ripped apart was heard. A blaze of light lit up the railway banks, and in it, a nauseating scene unfolded. Parts of the bus, mangled and crushed, were scattered over a large area and broken glass lay everywhere. Pieces of clothing were strewn as far away as the eye could see, as were the mutilated corpses of some of the children. Thin, high-pitched screams called from every direction, and a small hand clutched desperately at a hunk of metal which was imprisoning her. The town suddenly became a blaze of light. People came from everywhere, trying to do their best for the ones who were still alive. The wailing of ambulance and police sirens, combined with the noise from the broken bus horn added to the confusion of the scene. A small dog, sitting near the half-crushed body of his master, moaned pitiously. Far into the night, there was no peace for the little valley or the people who lived there.

Darkness engulfed the town once again, and the eerie stillness settled over the valley like a piece of cloth lying on top of an object. However, for one brief moment, the black, angry-looking clouds parted and a stream of white light fell upon a small sign reading, "Beware of Level Crossing", illuminating it. Then, the clouds moved together and hung in the sky like a grey blanket.

SOLITUDE

I fell. Cutting my way through the crisp, cool air, I found myself alone in a vast world, coloured blue by the Painter's camel-hair brush. I was pure, white, untouched by auto fumes or chimney soot. I was unique. I was a crystal which was set like a diamond in this void about me. My world of freedom shattered. The earth rose and collided with me like a cannonball. I desperately fought my way through the web of a grey, barren tree. Fluttering to the ground, I was clawed at by the reaching hands of playful children. I settled upon the black pavement to melt, to die.

THESE I LOVE

These I love:

The sunshine and the sky of blue Great masterpieces, old and new;
The huge oak trees that stand up high
And willow trees, that seem to cry,
The waters of the seven seas
That always flow and never freeze,
The lonely lighthouse on the coast
From which we benefit the most,
Strong winds that blow most everywhere
And keep us healthy with fresh air,
Wild animals that roam the land
And take whatever they demand;
But most of all the Lord above,
From whom I learned not hate, but love.

CANADA'S CENTENNIAL YEAR

Nineteen sixty-seven is Canada's year! It is, in our life-time, the climax of one phase in the story of our country. This year marks a century of progress — the union of disjointed territories into one unified nation, the transformation of desolate stretches of land into busy lands of activity; the changing from pioneer days to modern times and things.

British North America, on the eve of Confederation was opening up. The age of steam and steel had just begun. The pioneer train, "The Dorchester" made its first journey on July 21, 1836. It was soon followed by railway lines, of which the most important was the Grand Trunk Railway, running from Sarnia on the west to Riviere du Loup on the east. Sea travel, not to be outdone by land travel, soon began its first steam service from Quebec across the Atlantic. The ships were known as the Allan Line, named after the founder, Hugh Allan. The west was also opening up. More and more settlers ventured farther west into the Red River area. They were joined by prospectors, surging upon hearing the word, "Gold" into British North America along the Pacific coast. Each was the stage for Confederation.

However, as I look back, I wonder how confederation did take place. The territories seemed to be separated by barriers. A journalist of that time wrote: "We are shut off from each other geographically, commercially, politically, and socially. Our interests are not identical, but the very opposite." He spoke the truth! The Maritimes were separated from Canada by the New Brunswick highlands, Canada from Red River by forests, Red River from Pacific coast by the mountains, and also they differed in customs. Ideas and customs prevalent in some parts were not so in others. These barriers seemed insurmountable, but with the passing of time and combined interests, men like J. A. MacDonald proved this division to be false.

On July 1, 1867, four provinces, Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick joined to form a dominion. Soon others followed. Today, Canada consists of ten provinces. Each, to commemorate the birth, is building a monument to honour one of the Fathers of Confederation. The Nova Scotian government has just finished construction on a medical school on the Dalhousie University campus in Halifax. They are paying tribute to Sir Charles Tupper, a doctor-politician.

Quebec, or in truth, Montreal, is paying perhaps the greatest tribute to our founders. The latter is making our country known. She has managed to secure the World's Fair for the centennial year, thus ensuring wider exposure of Canada. Our economy will rise with the certain influx of visitors who, in the future, will regard Canada as a land of many beautiful scenes rather than a land blanketed in perpetual cold.

Centennial year serves a dual purpose which we must remember in the midst of our celebration. Centennial year marks the birth of our nation and should, as well, remind all Canadians that the desire of the founders was to have a land united in area and in spirit.

THE SOLDIER

He is a restless one, this skeleton of a human being, and with good reason. He is driven on by some force that cannot be comprehended by human beings, such as you and I. This, his urge, and duty to fight, drives him relentlessly on. He will find no rest until either conflict or his life ends. He is a miserable wretch, this slovenly unshaven man, clad in khaki. His best friend is his weapon. It is the only thing which he has not lost, as he has known loss and bereavement time and again, and he is sick of it. Now, he sits and contemplates the situation he is in. Shells fall around him, their din increasing every moment. The enemy draws nigh to him. Soon he will have to kill or be killed. For him it is a moment of intense agony. He wonders why life goes on. "Is it worth living?" Suddenly he feels a fiery pain in his side, and he knows that it is all over for him. In the next moment he leaves the earth. His misery is over.

CANADA-LAND OF THE FREE

The lonely cry of a wild goose and the eerie wail of a loon tears loose from hearts so free from the chains of hell
the rest of the world knows all too well-- the war and the strife--the grief in the life
where greedy pride
lets no one live without having to hide.

And yet, in Canada a soft cool breeze whispers freedom through fields and trees-- mountains looming to the skies shout promise of new hope--the cries of wind and bird and man proclaim the wild course of their land's acclaim to life and living--surely all the world can see
Canada is truly the land of the free.

THE SNOW STORM

She stepped softly, hesitatingly, through the thin velvet veil of falling snow. Night, mingled shades of deep and royal blue, dropped swiftly, bringing with it a sharp gust of wind. Treading quickly now, the young doe realized that soon the peaceful flakes of snow would become peircing pellets of fury.
With her graceful, extended bounds she soon reached the forest.

A protective thicket attracted her and she lay down among the bushes to watch.
Increasing in fervour, the wind whistled and played among the branches, then hurtled away to create more confusion.
Blinding sheets of glistening white, silhouetted against the cool, dark forest, swelled in great waves of exaltation and then disappeared into the night. The doe intently peered through her shelter and when the storm was spent, timidly arose and still trembling, left.

LE FESTIVAL DES FLEURS DE CERISIER

Chaque année en avril la communauté japonaise de Montréal a son festival des fleurs de cerisier à l'église. Celui de l'année passée était le meilleur et c'est celui dont je vais vous parler.

Dehors il faisait beau et à l'intérieur de l'église on avait l'illusion d'une scène au Japon. Toutes les dames portaient des kimonos aux couleurs vives.
Je me suis habillée chez une amie de ma mère et j'ai marché trois longs blocs pour arriver à l'église. C'était un peu embarrassant car tout le monde me regardait à cause de mes vêtements.

Je voudrais décrire un kimono et je prendrai le mien comme exemple. Il était rose avec des dessins de fleurs en blanc. La longue et large ceinture au
"obi" était de couleur d'or, décorée de hérons blancs, rouges et noirs, et nouée en arrière. Mon obi était si long qu'il m'entourait la taille trois ou quatre fois.

A l'église, on avait construit un cerisier en carton et les fleurs étaient en papier. L'arbre était d'une belle couleur rose et donnait l'impression d'être réel. Les branches s'étendaient sur une petite maison où on démontrait la cérémonie du thé. Les murs étaient en matière plastique qui imitait le papier, et le plancher élevé permettait à tous de bien voir. Il y avait une table presque à terre avec un pot de thé et des tasses en porcelaine, et tout autour des coussins sur lesquels on s'asseyait.

Puis de jeunes Japonaises on servi le thé en expliquant les délicats mouvements traditionnels. Mais il y avait tant de personnes qui l'air était étouffant et c'était un repos de s'évader au balcon.
Là les enfants regardaient une dame qui plissait des feuilles de papier pour en faire des animaux et des poupées.

Puis je suis allée voir l'exposition des fleurs. Des dames les arrangeaient en un bouquet, ou en plaçaient une seule fleur dans un vase. Un autre attrait était la danse qu'une jeune fille exécutait, accompagnée d'une musique lente et forte. Il y avait tant à voir que tout le monde se précipitait d'un endroit à l'autre et le tumulte dura pendant l'après-midi entier. J'ai servi le thé de midi à quatre heures avec deux autres jeunes filles. Les gens achetaient des billet à la porte et en échange recevaient du thé et des friandises connaises. C'était dans le sous-sol, mais en haut il y avait des objets d'art exposés: des poupées -- la sorte qu'on ne touche pas -- des éventails, des lanternes, et des parures pour cheveux.

Un objet-souvenir qu'on se devait d'acquiescer était un exemple d'écriture japonaise que le pasteur peignait pendant qu'on le voyait faire. Il écrivait des noms et cela était très fascinant pour les enfants et leurs parents. Il employait un pinceau et de l'encre de Chine et c'était passionnant d'observer son adresse.

Tous ces événements se sont combinés pour rendre cette journée intéressante et instructive, et j'attends impatiemment le festival de l'année prochaine.

L'HIVER

Qu'est-ce que l'hiver? Est-ce des jours froids et des rues glissantes? Ou est-ce la douceur de la neige tombante? Est-ce les chansons de Noël? Ou est-ce les gens qui patinent ou font du ski? Peut-être l'hiver est-il un enfant qui joue dans la neige? L'hiver c'est tout cela, et plus. Le cycle des saisons ne serait pas complet sans l'hiver. Les Noëls ne seraient pas de vrais Noëls sans la neige. Tout le monde aime les sports d'hiver. Cette saison signifie aussi la pelletée de la chute de neige, mais c'est amusant.

Pour moi, l'hiver est la plus belle saison de l'année, et je ne voudrais m'en passer pour rien au monde!

PAYSAGE

Quand le soleil descend, que les rayons
Se forment un par un sur le lac, en rond,
L'eau limpide s'éclaire et laisse voir le fond,
Et puis plus rien, pas un bruit, pas un son.

Sur la plage désertée rien ne vit.
Il ne reste plus rien qu'un vaste oubli,
Les rayons mourants du soir sont ravis
De bercer ce paysage endormi.

Je me retrouve assise admirant
La vague éternelle qui se prend
Dans le creux d'un rocher, pour peu de temps;
Car l'eau bouge, mouvement incessant.

SANS FIN

La mer court sans fin
Soit lente, soit rapide,
Créant éternellement
Modèles et images
Dans le sable.
Il en est de même avec la vie.
Nous vivons
Quelque-uns vite,
D'autres lentement,
Et l'expérience
Crée lignes
Et impressions,
Et nos visages,
Comme le sable,
Montrent ce qui se passe
Dans nos âmes.

LES MOYENS D'INFORMATION

Une des principales préoccupations de l'homme est son désir de s'informer. Il veut savoir ce qui se passe autour de lui, dans sa ville, dans son pays, et dans le monde. Il veut être au courant. Les moyens d'information à ma disposition sont la télévision, la radio, la presse, les magazines et les revues. Pour m'informer, j'emploie tous ces moyens. A la télévision nous pouvons entendre et voir à la fois des reportages, des faits réels, et des événements intéressants. Il y a des actualités sous forme de nouvelles locales, nationales, et internationales tous les jours. Aussi il y a des programmes éducatifs comme les cours télévisés et les films documentaires. Finalement, on ne doit pas oublier de mentionner les programmes récréatifs parce qu'il me semble que la plupart des personnes regardent ces programmes.

Vraiment, je n'ai pas de programme favori dans les spectacles de variétés parce que je n'ai pas assez de temps pour m'asseoir devant la télévision pendant deux ou trois heures à voir, les yeux injectés de sang, tant de programmes qui commencent chaque demi-heure et qui sont simplement une perte de temps. J'aime pourtant les programmes documentaires comme celui de Pierre Berton. On peut voir ce programme tous les jours, excepté les samedis et dimanches, avant les nouvelles à six heures. Je le regarde généralement deux ou trois fois par semaine. Les invités sont toujours intéressants ou se prêtent à la controverse: des acteurs et des économistes, des théologiens et des hommes politiques, des avocats et des médecins, des clochards et des musiciens, des auteurs et des artistes, toutes sortes de gens, jeunes et vieux, riches et pauvres, célèbres ou inconnus. Pierre leur pose beaucoup de questions intéressantes. Tous les programmes de Pierre Berton sont éducatifs et c'est pourquoi je les aime.

La radio est un autre moyen d'information. Il y a des nouvelles à chaque heure et c'est plus souvent qu'à la télévision. Les programmes d'opinion sont toujours enrichissants avec des débats ardents et des discussions libres.

La presse aussi est un bon moyen d'information. Le Montréal Star, Le Montréal Matin, La Gazette et La Presse sont de bons journaux. Les journaux donnent plus d'information que tous les autres moyens et donc ils sont très éducatifs.

On ne peut pas parler des moyens d'information sans dire qu'il y a eu des progrès extraordinaires réalisés dans l'imprimerie, la radiodiffusion et la télévision. Ces progrès rendent chaque génération plus savante que la précédente.

FEU DE FORET

Une langue écarlate lèche l'ombre de la nuit, se nourrissant d'air vivifiant. Le feu étouffé surgit de son coma et s'accroche aux braches et brindilles mortes. Son appétit n'est pas satisfait de si peu. Les étincelles pénètrent la moirceur nocturne. Prête à consumer et détruire tout ce qu'elle peut saisir, la chaleur devient intense et fait éclater la végétation environnante. En peu de temps l'incendie se développe en un véritable enfer. Comme un raz de marée qui engloutit toute vie sur son chemin, les flammes dévorent pins et érables, sans respect pour l'oeuvre de la nature. Le feu trouve un allié en un vent mugissant qui le balaie et le façonne en des formes effrayantes. Il s'avance: devant lui, les créatures de toutes sortes s'enfuient en une course effrénée, tandis que derrière il ne reste qu'une terre dévastée qui devra souffrir de stérilité des générations durant.

Bientôt le monstre fait face à une rivière, léger obstacle qui ne devrait guère être difficile à surmonter. Mais au moment décisif, le vent change de direction et ainsi trahit son complice. Le puissance destructrice a semé l'ancantissement complet. Le monstre crache des flammes sur l'autre rive dans l'espoir d'y survivre, mais en vain. Le feu, battant en retraite et affamé par sa propre voracité, dépérit et meurt.

Inter-School Christian Fellowship

I. S. C. F. is an interdenominational Christian organization whose purpose is "To know Christ and make Him known." It sponsors hundreds of high school Christian clubs around the world. This year, Rosemount High's I. S. C. F. has been particularly active. Speakers included Pastor Johnson, Kent Garrett of the I. S. C. F. executive, Reverend Dave Ward of I. V. C. F., Ashley Kimber, a director of the Sermons from Science Pavilion at Expo, and many others. We have sponsored, free of charge, films such as "Decision" and "Facts of Faith" for the student body. A highlight this year occurred when Tina, a converted drug addict, told a crowd of 500 students how she was saved from the perils of dope and how she added a new dimension to her life through faith in Jesus Christ. The I. S. C. F. sponsor was Mr. Hobus and we are particularly grateful for his invaluable assistance. The school year 1966-67 for our I. S. C. F. has been extremely fruitful and we look forward to even more promising times next year.
